Vendetta

While William T. Larew spins on a spit before the York County Board of Supervisors, while Williamsburg, York County and James City County grind their teeth over vital local issues, and while Leroy Mason appeals his murder conviction, The Virginia Gazette devotes its boldest front page headlines to still another dreary book review on CIA operations at Camp Peary (March 7). Such reporting brings to mind those choice lines from the Geritol commercial, "Honey, you're incredible."

The first expose could be labeled irresponsible journalism. The subsequent attempted sensationalism makes at least one reader inquire why the apparent vendetta against our unobtrusive neighbor?

Bold type could be better reserved for something truly worthy of the tradition, "... freshest advices, foreign and domestic."
